Abstract

A member for mounting concentrically on a catheter and for disposition about a skin opening so as to be contiguous with the surfaces of the opening, the member being of sponge-like material, and an anti-microbial fluid disposed in the member and leachable onto the skin and into the opening.